Richmond, VA - HeloAir is pleased to announce the continuation of a long-term helicopter partnership with Dominion Energy. Over the next three years, HeloAir will be the primary provider of helicopter services to Dominion Energy for all of their helicopter routine patrol and emergency response needs. The addition of our state of the art FLIR/Corona/IR camera will allow us to assist Dominion power in identify potential problems before they arise. Over the past 25 years, HeloAir has consistently responded to natural disasters, such as floods, hurricanes, ice storms, and tornadoes, to assist Dominion Energy with returning power to affected customers as quickly and as efficiently as possible. With a fleet of ten helicopters, HeloAir is uniquely positioned in the Mid-Atlantic region to provide this level of service to Dominion Energy. According to HeloAir's president, Whit Baldwin, "At HeloAir, Inc., we are committed to providing our customers with aviation safety and excellent customer service. This is especially critical in the type of emergency situations we've handled for two and a half decades for Energy. We look forward to continuing to go the extra mile for Dominion over the years ahead, in helping them provide the best possible service to its customers.
