HeloAir Awarded Hailey Idaho USFS Five Year Contract

March 21, 2012

HeloAir is pleased to announce that they will be opening up a base out west, the great frontier. We have been awarded a five year contract to provide initial attack, fire suppression, and prescribed burning for the Sawtooth National Forest in Hailey, Idaho from June to September through 2016. HeloAir president Whit Baldwin, "This is a continuation of the relationship between HeloAir and the United States Forest Service. We are delighted to have won the award as it represents our first move out west and look forward to assisting in fire suppression in Idaho for the next five years."
